

diss:kurs 2027

What Inspires Researchers

From Anthropology to Zoology: Doctoral candidates and postdocs present their projects

Dear doctoral candidates and postdocs of the University of Basel,

diss:kurs offers you the opportunity to present your research project to an academic audience and the wider public and to show how inspiring, relevant and diverse the research you conduct during your qualification phase can be. You will give your talk on a theater stage in a clear and accessible way, inviting the audience into the world of research.

Alongside other speakers from a range of disciplines, you have 10 minutes to give the audience fascinating insights into your field of research. This will be followed by a Q&A session. To help you prepare for the event, you will receive comprehensive training in presentation skills led by a communications expert and a theater director.

Do not miss this opportunity – apply by mid-October 2026!

- Date & time: June 3, 2027, 5:00 pm, followed by an apéro riche
- Place: Tabourettli, Theater Fauteuil, Spalenberg 12, 4051 Basel
- Target group: Doctoral candidates and postdocs of the University of Basel
- Selection procedure: The participants are selected by a committee composed of experts from the Vice President's Offices for Research and for Education.
- Selection criteria: Originality, innovation, consideration of different areas of the university
- Presentation training: The mandatory presentation training takes place on May 20 & 27, 2027.
- Application: Send the completed application form to grace@unibas.ch by October 15, 2026.