Café international

The office for National & International Cooperation along with the Language Center invite international and local residents and hosts associated with the University of Basel to our next event:

Living in Basel maximizing your intercultural experience

What to expect

Lost the plot? Do you have a story to tell around living in Basel? Where have you as host or guest felt inappropriately treated or didn't know what to do? And can sharing our stories be the beginning to creating mutual understanding within our diverse communities?

In this Café international, we turn our anecdotes about intercultural living into opportunities for intercultural understanding. Share your experiences, hear what others have gained from living together, and through instructive activities sharpen your intercultural competence.
